Sound/Image

The exhibition, symposium and demos to explore the creative tension and interplay between Sound and Image. Artists engage with possible ways of narration whether guided or enhanced, altered or disrupted through the Sound/Image interface or explored solely through a sense of hearing or a sense of sight.

The Symposium Exploring the Human Sensorium through Sound/Image featuring screenings, talks and life demonstrations also opens the exhibition on Wednesday 7th December at 2 pm in Cinema. The screenings are open to public and will run 10 am – 6 pm from 7th to 11th December.

This event is organised in association with the research project, Engaging the Human Sensorium through Art and New Technologies, funded by the Great Britain Sasakawa Foundation that builds on uses of digital technologies in contemporary art, creating opportunities for new knowledge, artistic and technological exchange, featuring artists’ works and device art demos from Japan and Scotland.

The exhibition travelled from IA Gallery, Tokyo Metropolitan University and Miraikan - National Museum of Emerging Science and Innovation in Tokyo where it was showcased between 21-28 April 2016.

Engaging the Human Sensorium Through Art and New Technologies:
Symposium and Showcase

2016
UWS - TMU
University of West Scotland - Tokyo Metropolitan University

The exhibition explores the creative tensions and intuitions between Sound and Image. The works showcased engage with possible ways of constructing perceptions through the interplay of sound and image in order to explore the potential of these elements in a broader context.

The exhibition is presented in collaboration with the University of West Scotland and Tokyo Metropolitan University. The works are the result of a creative collaboration between artists, designers, and architects, and are presented through interactive and immersive installations. The exhibition aims to provoke thought and reflection on the relationship between sound and image in contemporary art.

Where is God?
David Smith

The exhibition is titled "God is Everywhere" as a way of challenging the public's perception of God's presence. The exhibition explores the concept of God's presence in everyday life, from the natural world to technology. The exhibition features a multimedia installation, which includes video, sound, and interactive elements, providing a unique experience for visitors.

A part of the "People & Society" project initiated by Social Lancaster Council.
